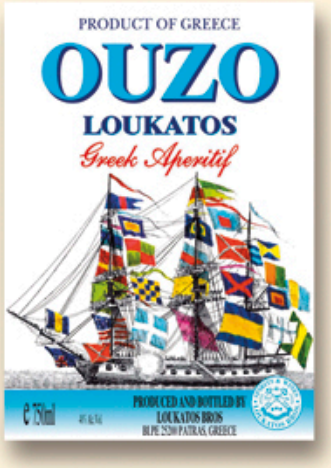
LOUKATOS-Achaia Wines & Spirits - Greece

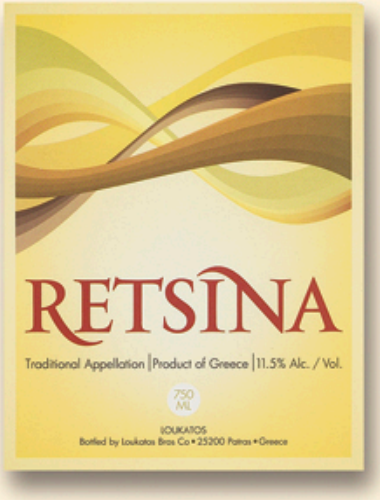


Ouzo Anise Aperitif
The anise flavor is prominent and well defined, but deepened with herb, pepper and hint of lemon. It is strong and clean. When mixed with water it turns milky white with a blue tint.

Mastic Traditional Greek Liqueur
Produced from the resin of the mastic tree from the island of Chios. It has the sweet flavors of unflavored raw gum. Use of the mastic resin dates back to the 5th century B.C.

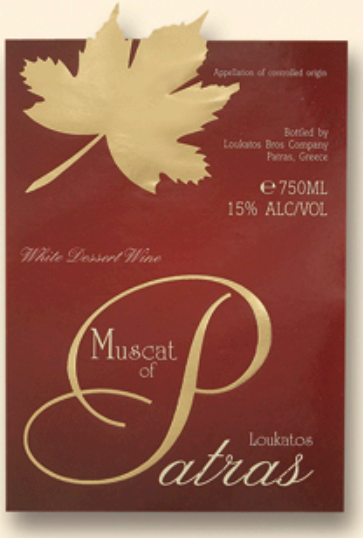
Tentoura Traditional Greek Liqueur
Rich aromas of gloves, cinnamon, nutmeg and citrus fruits dominate the flavors of this liqueur. Excellent as an aperitif and after dinner drink. Originally introduced in the 15th century in the city of Patras.
Enjoy it chilled.

Tsipouro Grape Distillate
Traditional Greek Spirit
This is a strong grape pomace distillate similar to that of Grappa. Originally introduced in the 14th century by the monks at Mount Athos. Chilled or not, it can be enjoyed best with appetizers or "meze".



Retsina Traditional White Wine
Light as air, this is all about the refreshing menthol qualities of pine. Chill it well and drink with salty foods.
Grape Variety: Roditis

Mavrodaphne of Patras Red Dessert Wine
This is a thick, purple wine that has gone the way of a tawny Port, aging simultaneously lightening and deepening its flavors. Now the fruit is more baked apple and apricot, while the freshness has turned to ruffle, spice and deep caramel. Most remarkably, the sweetness has mellowed considerably, giving plenty of ripe flavors while finishing light and clean.
Grape Variety: Mavrodaphne



Muscat of Patras White Dessert Wine
A full bodied, sweet and lightly herbal white wine with a medium gold color, slightly nutty aroma, hint of orange and a delightful burnt honey taste.
Grape Variety: Muscat
